

Exam-Time Eating Strategies

Three tips to keep you alert and avoid useless calories while studying.

1. Eat breakfast. Quick breakfast ideas:

- Small fruit, whole wheat toast with peanut butter, milk
- Melted cheese on whole wheat toast, ½ bagel, or tortilla, 6 oz OJ
- Yogurt (with fruit and a few almonds)
- Low fat cottage cheese and fruit, with ½ English muffin and jelly
- Slice leftover pizza, 6 oz OJ
- Instant oatmeal with milk, nuts, and OJ
- Breakfast smoothie (1 C. skim milk or no-fat yogurt, ½ C. frozen fruit, and 1 T. wheat germ whirled in a blender)
- Peanut butter or slice of deli meat on whole-wheat toast and skim milk
- Toasted whole-wheat waffle, topped with 1 T. syrup and ½ C cut up fresh fruit
- Packet of Carnation Instant Breakfast® mixed with skim milk
- Slimfast® shake or bar
- 1/2 C. low fat cottage cheese and fruit
- 1 egg, English muffin or 2 slices toast, with 6-8 oz orange juice
- Ready-to-eat cereal/skim milk and one piece or ½ cup cut up fruit

2. Emphasize protein over carbohydrates. High Protein Meals (and snacks):

- Pasta with chicken strips
- Frozen entrees
- Protein smoothie
- Canned tuna or chicken and crackers or as a sandwich
- Microwave scrambled eggs and toast
- High protein cereal (like Kashi Go Lean®) dry or with low-fat or skim milk
- Bean and cheese quesadilla (with salsa)
- Cottage cheese and fruit
- Chili / Stew / Bean soups
- String cheese with crackers or fruit
- Baked tortilla chips and bean dip or hummus
- Chicken, turkey, ham, or roast beef sandwich
- Yogurt (with fruit, nuts, dry cereal, any or all)
- Broth-based soups
- Peanut butter sandwiches (optional: jelly, honey, banana)
