Do you have any date suggestions?

Glad you asked! Here are seven date ideas for getting out, doing something new, having a good time, and getting to know someone better.

1. Hiking - Tucson is a hiker’s paradise, with low desert, mountain forests, and everything in between. Explore the nearby State Parks, National Parks, Forests, and Wilderness areas for the ultimate change in scenery.

2. Museums - These offer the perfect place (and pace) to stroll, reflect, and get to know your date. On the UA Campus we have a world class photography museum (the Center for Creative Photography), an art museum, a gem and mineral museum, and a state museum. Check out the Planetarium, too!

3. Picnic - Low on cash? No problem. Grab a blanket, a few snacks, a Frisbee, and you are set. Check out the turtle pond west of Gila Hall. If you are looking for some greenery off campus, try nearby Himmel Park.

4. Take a drive - Why not tour one of the smaller towns around Tucson?

   - Try Tubac, Tombstone, Bisbee, or Summerhaven (a beautiful drive up Mt. Lemmon).

5. A night at the theater - Tucson has many fantastic theatre options. Two of our favs? Arizona Theatre Company in downtown Tucson. Best kept secret? Students can buy $10 tickets for outstanding shows. Or, check out the Gaslight Theatre on the eastside. It’s Tucson’s original, melodrama venue. They will have you laughing out loud, cheering the good guys/gals, and booing the villains. Free popcorn and a dinner menu. Trust us, it’s fun!

6. Cooking - Making a meal together is an enjoyable and flavorful activity for a date. Need ideas? Cooking on Campus has recipes, and classes, to help you create something uniquely edible. (cookingoncampus.arizona.edu)

7. Students entertaining YOU - UA sporting events aren’t the only things happening on campus. Check out UA theatre, music, and dance events on the UA Master Calendar! (uanews.arizona.edu/calendar)

Have a question? Email it to sextalk@email.arizona.edu

Most UA students spend their Spring Break at home, relaxing and sleeping. We hope you enjoy a fun, safe break, wherever you are!